Dr. Oz, UnitedHealthcare, and Sharecare.com

Offering comprehensive health and wellness information

UnitedHealthcare has teamed up with Dr. Oz and Internet entrepreneur Jeff Arnold in support of their new health and wellness website Sharecare.com. Sharecare’s goal is to simplify the search for high-quality health care information and answer the world’s questions of health. Other partners include Dr. Oz, Johns Hopkins University, the American Heart Association®, Walgreens, Discovery Health, the Cleveland Clinic and UnitedHealthcare.

As the exclusive sponsor of the health insurance category, UnitedHealthcare has provided answers to almost 1,000 of the most commonly asked questions related to health insurance today. Topics include:

- Health Care Reform
- Types of Health Insurance Plans
- Key Health Insurance Terms
- How Health Insurance Works
- How to Choose a Health Insurance Plan
- Medicare
- Medicaid
- Dental and Vision Insurance

Getting started

You can access information on the site in several ways.

- Visit UnitedHealthcare’s profile page at http://www.sharecare.com/group/unitedhealthcare, where you’ll find a sampling of the health insurance questions our experts have answered. You can also explore related topics, ask a question, and find additional links and information. Remember to become our “friend” so you can get frequent updates on the latest health information.

- You can also go to the search bar at the top of the page and type a question or keyword. For example, you could type in, “What is a co-pay?” and you’ll find our answer and in some cases, answers from other experts like Dr. Oz. You can also explore suggestions for related questions and topics.

New questions and answers are being added every day so if you have a question and don’t see an answer, submit it to the site using the “Feedback” link at the bottom of the page.