

Seth Hagymasi PT, DPT, OCS, FAAOMPT

Seth Hagymasi, PT, DPT has been a practicing physical therapist for 15 years, is currently a Site Supervisor with Hartford Healthcare Rehabilitation Network in Torrington, CT as well as adjunct instructor at the University of Hartford in West Hartford, CT. His primary area of clinical and academic work has been in the area of outpatient orthopedics with focus on spine rehabilitation and persistent pain conditions. Seth received his Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science from Skidmore College, Master of Physical Therapy from Sacred Heart University, and Doctor of Physical Therapy from Regis University. Seth attained board certification as an Orthopedic Clinical Specialist in 2015, and in 2018 completed a Fellowship in Orthopedic Manual Physical Therapy through Regis University. He has published in, and contributed to, peer reviewed journals and textbooks nationally and internationally in the areas of orthopedics, pain, and implementing system-level programmatic change.